On January 8th, 2001, scientists and medical staff at a technological institute announced the birth of the first clone of an animal at risk of extinction, a snow leopard named Noah. Although Noah died of an infection unrelated to the procedure, it was demonstrated that it is possible to save (B1) ... (DANGER) species through cloning. Cloning is the process of making a genetically identical organism through artificial means. It has been used for many years for the development of plants. Animal cloning has been the subject of (B2) ... (SCIENCE) experiments for years, but was (B3) ... (LARGE) ignored until the birth of the first cloned mammal in 1997 – a sheep named Dolly. Since Dolly, several other animals, including cows and mice, have been cloned and copied. The recent (B4) ... (ACHIEVE) in cloning animals have brought about fierce discussions among scientists, politicians and the general public about the uses and applications of cloning plants, animals and (B5) ... (POSSIBLE) humans. Certainly the situation calls for (B6) ... (CARE) monitoring and the amount of time spent on research should be lengthened before further experiments are carried out.

Our means of communicating with each other are definitely changing. Face-to-face interactions are (B1)......(PLACE) by technology. This was (B2)......(CLEAR) evident in a restaurant I visited recently, where all the ordering was done on tablet computers. I was definitely impressed with the efficiency of the system. It gives you the freedom to order as soon as you are ready rather than waiting to catch the eye of a passing waiter. This leads to a (B3).........(CONSIDER) reduction in the time it takes for your food to arrive. Staff are still on hand to provide assistance for people (B4).......(FAMILIAR) with modern technology. (B5)..........(LUCK), the food was traditional, which was a relief. Eating in such a high-tech environment is fine when you're on the move. Part of the (B6).......(ENJOY) of eating out is the sociable atmosphere and friendly help of the staff.

ЗАДАНИЕ ТЕСТА

Прочитайте текст и выполните задания к нему

- § 1. In the 1930s, when radio was still in its infancy, broadcasting stations in the USA wondered what type of programmes they should put on during the daytime. They came up with the idea of producing serials that would be on the radio every afternoon telling a continuous story. To keep the listeners' interest, there would be far more crises occurring than in real life. Knowing that the majority of the audience would be women, the broadcasters decided that the women in the serials would be strong characters and the men weak. The serials were an instant success with listeners. As the radio stations were paid for by advertising, these programmes always carried advertisements and, since one of the most frequently advertised products was soap, the programmes became known as Soaps or Soap Operas.
- § 2. It was really by chance that the soap opera appeared in Britain. The BBC (British Broadcasting Corporation) had no interest in producing this type of programme but during the Second World War it was thought that the Americans should be shown how well the British people were standing up to the war. For this reason, a soap opera was written for the North American service of the BBC; it was called Front Line Family and showed how a typical English family, the Robinsons, were living during the war. Some people in Britain managed to hear the programme and asked for it to be broadcast for the British audience. The BBC were unwilling to do this but finally agreed and broadcast the programme in Britain, but changed the name to The Robinsons.
- § 3. Some attempts at soap opera began to appear on television in Britain in the mid-1950s but it was not until 1961 that the first real soap opera appeared. The serial, called Coronation Street, was about the lives of people living in a working-class street near Manchester. Although the serial was planned to run for only thirteen weeks, it is still to be seen several nights every week and almost every week has more viewers than any other programme on British television.
- § 4. The BBC never managed to produce a really successful soap opera until 1984, when it introduced Eastenders. This programme is about life in an area of the East End of London. For a time it had more viewers than Coronation Street and still rivals it as the most popular programme on British television. There is a major difference between the two programmes in that Eastenders concentrates on often rather depressing realism whilst Coronation Street, although having serious storylines, always contains a strong element of comedy.

Выберите один из предложенных вариантов ответа в соответствии с содержанием приведенного выше текста

A25 Why did the radio stations make women have the strongest characters in soap operas?

- 1) Because the audience would be mainly female.
- 2) Because men usually have weak characters.
- 3) Because women deal better with crises.
