

Nouns

Singular & Plural Nouns:
Definitions, Rules & Examples

What is a Noun?

- noun (noun): a word (except a pronoun) that identifies a person, place or thing, or names one of them (proper noun)
- The simple definition is: a person, place or thing. Here are some examples:

person: man, woman, teacher, John, Mary place: home, office, town, countryside, America

thing: table, car, banana, money, music, love, dog, monkey

Another (more complicated) way of recognizing a noun is by its:

- ending
- position
- function

Noun ending

There are certain word endings that show that a word is a noun, for example:

- -ity → nationality
- -ment → appointment
- -ness → happiness
- -ation → relation
- -hood → childhood

But this is not true for the word endings of all nouns. For example, the noun "spoonful" ends in -ful, but the adjective "careful" also ends in -ful.

Position in sentence

We can often recognise a noun by its position in the sentence.

Nouns often come after a determiner (a determiner is a word like a, an, the, this, my, such):

- a relief
- an afternoon
- the doctor
- this word
- my house
- such stupidity

Nouns often come after one or more adjectives:

- a great relief
- a peaceful afternoon
- the tall, Indian doctor
- this difficult word
- my brown and white house
- such crass stupidity

Gender-specific Noun

- A gender-specific noun is a noun that refers specifically to someone or something male or a female. In English, the gender of most nouns is neuter.
- However, if a noun refers to something obviously male or female, then its gender will be masculine or feminine (as determined by the meaning).

Genders of Noun

- Masculine Gender
- Feminine Gender
- Neuter Gender
- Common Gender

Gender Specific (Masculine)

rooster

man

bull elephant

Gender Specific (Feminine)

hen

woman

tigress

Not Gender Specific (Neutral)

chicken

doctor

hippopotamus

MASCULINE GENDER

- Masculine Gender is a name that denotes a male person or animal.

Example: grandfather, father, uncle, brother, nephew, son, man...

Nouns referring to males:

- king, uncle, drake (male duck), wether (a castrated male sheep or goat)

The grammatical gender of these nouns is masculine.

FEMININE GENDER

- Feminine Gender is a name that expresses a female person or animal.

Example: grandmother, mother, aunt, sister, niece, daughter, woman...

Nouns referring to females:

- queen, vixen (female fox), bitch (female dog), sow (female pig)

The grammatical gender of these nouns is feminine.

NEUTER GENDER

- Neuter Gender is a name that shows a thing which is neither male nor female, especially with thing without life.

Example: table, book, car, train, pen, house, school, chair...

COMMON GENDER

- Common Gender is used to stand in stead of male or female nouns.

Example: grandparents, parents, guardian, child, student, friend, cousin, enemy...

The following are not gender-specific nouns:

- soldier, shark, lawyer, person

Without further context, these are gender-neutral nouns.

Here are Two Gender-specific Nouns. Can you find them?

- mob
- headmistress
- congregation
- army
- hive
- bunch
- range
- school
- uncle

Real-Life Examples of Gender-specific Nouns

In English, the gender of a noun determines the pronouns we use with it (e.g., he, she, it) and the possessive determiners (e.g., his, her, its). In each of the following examples, the gender-specific noun is shaded and the related pronoun or possessive determiner is in bold:

- My mother had a great deal of trouble with me, but I think she enjoyed it. (Writer Mark Twain)
- She got her looks from her father. He's a plastic surgeon. (Comedian Groucho Marx)
- Behind every great man is a woman rolling her eyes. (Actor Jim Carrey)
- I haven't spoken to my wife in years. I didn't want to interrupt her. (Comedian Rodney Dangerfield)

Why Should I Care about Gender-specific Nouns?

Using the word "actress"

- Using the gender-specific noun "actress" is considered sexist by some, most probably because the noun "actor" has always been a gender-neutral term meaning a person who acts.
- Some feel the word "actress," which emerged long after "actor," is not needed and only serves to engender gender inequality. (After all, there are no female versions of nouns like "doctor," "politician," "pilot," and "beggar," so it's a fair point.)
- As a result of increasing public awareness on gender equality, the gender-neutral usage of "actor" is becoming more popular in modern English as people strive not to offend.

Using the word "chairman"

- Not everyone treats the noun "chairman" as a gender-specific noun, and it is regularly used for men and women. However, quite understandably, many consider it as masculine noun, and when the appointed person is female, they opt for "chairwoman" (a term that has been in use since at least the 17th century). So, some will think "chairman" is just for men, and some won't. This issue is often avoided by using the gender-neutral term "chairperson" or "chair."

Using the word "chairman"

- Don't call me "chairman" because I'm a woman. Don't call me "chairwoman" because my sex is irrelevant. Don't call me "chairperson" because that term is trying too hard not to be sexist. Call me "chair."

(This captures the issue. If you're unsure, use "chair.")

Choosing the right version of blonde/blond.

The word blond/blonde changes depending on its gender.

- Blond is a noun meaning a fair-haired male.
- The blond has nice shoes.

(We now know it's a boy.)

- Blond is also an adjective used to describe anybody (regardless of their gender) with fair hair.
- The blond girl and the blond boy make a nice blond couple.

(When it's an adjective, blond can be used for all genders.)

- Blonde is a noun meaning a fair-haired female.

- The blonde has nice shoes.

(We now know it's a girl.)

- Blonde is also an adjective used to describe a female (or females) with fair hair.
- The blonde girl and the blond boy make a nice blond couple.

(As an adjective, blonde or blond can be used to describe females.)

Finding an alternative to his/her.

Look at these sentences:

- Each person must understand where he fits in the team.
- Anyone who forgets his passport will be sent home.

But what if they're not all male? Using he or his for unknown people is, of course, sexist and inaccurate.

To get around this, you could write:

- Each person must understand where he/she fits in the team.
- Anyone who forgets his or her passport will be sent home.

But, as they're clumsy solutions, lots of people naturally opt for this:

- Each person must understand where they fit in the team.
- Anyone who forgets their passport will be sent home.

NB: "Singular they" was nominated as the American Dialect Society's word of the year in 2015

Using gender-neutral pronouns for people who do not identify themselves as either male or female.

Be aware that some people identify themselves as both male and female while others as neither male nor female.

- These people might ask you to use they (their, them, theirs, themselves) or just their name instead of a pronoun (e.g., Sarah, Sarah's, Sarah's self) when talking about them.

"They" is plural, but the person's name isn't.

- He ~~They~~ ~~is~~ ~~are~~ taking ~~his~~ ~~their~~ exams tomorrow. ✓

(This sounds natural because we have plurals throughout, i.e., "they," "are," and "their.")

- Jo is taking ~~his~~ ~~their~~ exams tomorrow. ✓

(This sounds less natural. We now have two singulars ("Jo" and "is") with a plural ("their"). This example is correct though.)

Use "themselves" instead of "themselves."

When referring to one non-binary person, use "themselves" not "themselves." For example:

- ~~She~~ They ~~is~~ ~~are~~ managing ~~herself~~ themselves. ✓

(The word "themselves" is still not listed in many dictionaries. If you try to write "themselves," your autocorrect will change it to "themselves." However, when using a reflexive pronoun for one non-binary person, you should use "themselves.")

Person of Nouns

- Person is that property of a noun or a pronoun which distinguishes the speaker, the person spoken to, and the person or object spoken of.

NOUN PERSON

Three Persons

First Person (Speaking)

I am reciting Homer today.

Second Person (Spoken to)

You, Josh, should listen closely.

Third Person (Spoken of)

The Odyssey is an epic poem like no other.

Function in a sentence

Nouns have certain functions (jobs) in a sentence, for example:

- Subject: The mailcarrier always rings twice. Tulips are early spring flowers. (Tells who or what does or is something.)
- Direct object: I finally sold my car. (Tells what is sold.)
- Indirect object: Harold gave the cat another olive. (Tells to whom he gave the olive.)
- Object of preposition: She gave directions over the phone. (Tells what is the object of the preposition over.)
- Adverb: The train leaves today. (Tells when.)
- Adjective: The office building faces the zoo. (Tells what kind, which one.)
- Possession: The movie's plot fooled no one. (Shows ownership or possession.)

Plural Noun Rules

There are many plural noun rules, and because we use nouns so frequently when writing, it's important to know all of them! The correct spelling of plurals usually depends on what letter the singular noun ends in.

1. To make regular nouns plural, add -s to the end.

- cat – cats
- house – houses

2. If the singular noun ends in -s, -ss, -sh, -ch, -x, or -z, add -es to the end.

- truss – trusses
- bus – buses
- marsh – marshes
- lunch – lunches
- tax – taxes
- blitz – blitzes

3. In some cases, singular nouns ending in -s or -z, require that you double the -s or -z prior to adding the -es for pluralization.

- fez – fezzes
- gas – gasses

If the noun ends with -f or -fe, the f is often changed to -ve before adding the -s to form the plural version.

- wife – wives
- wolf – wolves

Exceptions:

- roof – roofs
- belief – beliefs
- chef – chefs
- chief – chiefs

5. If a singular noun ends in -y and the letter before the -y is a consonant, change the ending to -ies to make the noun plural.

- city – cities
- puppy – puppies

6. If the singular noun ends in -y and the letter before the -y is a vowel, simply add an -s to make it plural.

- ray – rays
- boy – boys

7. If the singular noun ends in -o, add -es to make it plural.

- potatoo – potatoes
- tomatoo – tomatoes

Exceptions:

- photoo – photos
- pianoo – pianos
- haloo – halos

With the unique word volcano, you can apply the standard pluralization for words that end in -o or not. It's your choice! Both of the following are correct:

- volcanoes
- volcanos

8. If the singular noun ends in -us, the plural ending is frequently -i.

- cactus – cacti
- focus – foci

9. If the singular noun ends in -is, the plural ending is -es.

- analysis – analyses
- ellipsis – ellipses

10. If the singular noun ends in -on, the plural ending is -a.

- phenomenon – phenomena
- criterion – criteria

11. Some nouns don't change at all when they're pluralized.

- sheep – sheep
- series – series
- species – species
- deer –deer

You need to see these nouns in context to identify them as singular or plural. Consider the following sentence:

- Mark caught one fish, but I caught three fish.

Irregular Nouns

- child – children
- goose – geese
- man – men
- woman – women
- tooth – teeth
- foot – feet
- mouse – mice
- person – people

Types of Nouns

Common Nouns and Proper Nouns

Concrete Nouns and Abstract Nouns

Countable Nouns and Uncountable Nouns

Collective Nouns

Compound Nouns

Common Nouns

- Most nouns are common nouns. Common nouns refer to people, places and things in general like chair or dog. Any noun that is not a name is a common noun.
- Examples: teacher, car, music, danger, receipt

Have you seen my dog?

The books are on your desk.

...the pursuit of happiness.

Proper Nouns

- Names of people, places or organizations are proper nouns. Your name is a proper noun. London is a proper noun. United Nations is a proper noun.

Rule: Proper nouns always start with a capital letter.

Examples: Jane, Thailand, Sunday, James Bond, Einstein, Superman, Game of Thrones, Shakespeare

Let me introduce you to Mary.

The capital of Italy is Rome.

He is the chairman of the British Broadcasting Corporation.

I was born in November.

Note: Adjectives that we make from proper nouns also usually start with a capital letter, for example Shakespearian, Orwellian.

Capital Letters with Proper Nouns

RULE: We always use a Capital Letter for the first letter of a name or proper noun. This includes names of people, places, companies, days of the week and months.

For example:

They like Anthony. (not They like anthony.)

I live in England.

She works for Sony.

The last day in January is a Monday.

We saw Titanic in the Odeon Cinema.

common noun	proper noun
man, boy	John
woman, girl	Mary
country, town	England, London
company	Ford, Sony
shop, restaurant	Amazon, Subway
month, day of the week	January, Sunday
book, film	War and Peace, Titanic

Proper Nouns without THE

- with names of people;
- names of companies;
- for shops, banks, hotels etc named after a founder or other person (with -'s or -s);
- with names of places;
- with "President/Doctor/Mr etc + Name;
- with "Lake/Mount + Name;
- for roads, streets, squares, parks etc;
- Many big, important buildings have names made of two words (for example, Kennedy place, we do not normally use "the").

people	Kennedy Airport, Alexander Palace, St Paul's Cathedral
places	Heathrow Airport, Waterloo Station, Edinburgh Castle

Proper Nouns without THE

We do not normally use "the" with names of companies. For example:

- Renault, Ford, Sony, EnglishClub (~~not the EnglishClub~~)
- General Motors, Air France, British Airways
- Warner Brothers, Brown & Son Ltd

BUT If the full (registered) name of a company starts with "The", then we use "The" if we use the full name, for example:

- The Post Publishing Public Co., Ltd

In this case, "The" is part of the company's name and must be capitalised, like all names.

first names	Bill (not the Bill)
	Hilary
surnames	Clinton
	Gates
full names	Hilary Gates

shops	Harrods, Marks & Spencer, Macy's
banks	Barclays Bank
hotels, restaurants	Steve's Hotel, Joe's Cafe, McDonald's
churches, cathedrals	St John's Church, St Peter's Cathedral

towns	Washington (not The Washington), Paris, Tokyo
states, regions	Texas, Kent, Eastern Europe
countries	England, Italy, Brazil
continents	Asia, Europe, North America islands	Corsica
mountains	Everest

Exception! If a country name includes "States", "Kingdom", "Republic" etc, we use "the":

states	the United States, the US, the United States of America, the USA
kingdom	the United Kingdom, the UK
republic	the French Republic

the president, the king	President Bush (not the President Bush)
the captain, the detective	Captain Kirk, Detective Colombo
the doctor, the professor	Doctor Well, Dr Well, Professor Dolittle
my uncle, your aunt	Uncle Jack, Aunt Jill
	Mr Gates (not the Mr Gates), Mrs Clinton, Miss Black

Look at these example sentences:

- I wanted to speak to the doctor.
- I wanted to speak to Doctor Brown.
- Who was the president before President Kennedy?

We do not use "the" with "Lake/Mount + Name":

the lake	Lake Victoria
the mount	Mount Everest

Look at this example sentence:

- We live beside Lake Victoria. We have a fantastic view across the lake.

We do not normally use "the" for roads, streets, squares, parks etc:

streets etc	Oxford Street, Trenholme Road, Fifth Avenue
squares etc	Trafalgar Square, Oundle Place, Piccadilly Circus
parks etc	Central Park, Kew Gardens

Proper Nouns with THE

- for country names that include "States", "Kingdom", "Republic" etc (the United States of America/the USA, the United Kingdom/the UK, the French Republic);
- for names of canals, rivers, seas and oceans (the Suez Canal, the River Nile, the Nile, the Mediterranean Sea, the Mediterranean, the Pacific Ocean, the Pacific);
- for plural names of people and places (the Clintons, the Philippines, the United States, the Virgin Islands, the British Isles, the Himalayas, the Alps);
- for names made with "of " (the Tower of London, the Gulf of Siam, the London School of Economics, the Statue of Liberty);
- with the following sorts of names:

hotels, restaurants	the Ritz Hotel, the Peking Restaurant
banks	the National Westminster Bank
cinemas, theatres	the Royal Theatre, the ABC Cinema
museums	the British Museum, the National Gallery
buildings	the White House, the Crystal Palace
newspapers	the Daily Telegraph, the Sunday Post
organisations	the United Nations, the BBC, the European Union

Concrete Nouns

Concrete nouns are physical things that you can touch.

Examples: man, rice, head, car, furniture, mobile phone

- How many stars are there in the universe?
- Have you met James Bond?
- Pour the water down the drain.

Abstract Nouns

Abstract nouns are the opposite of concrete nouns. They are things that you cannot touch. Abstract nouns are ideas, concepts and feelings.

Examples: happiness, courage, danger, truth

- He has great strength.
- Who killed President Kennedy is a real mystery.
- Sometimes it takes courage to tell the truth.
- Their lives were full of sadness.

Countable Nouns

(also called count nouns)

You can count countable nouns. Countable nouns have singular and plural forms.

Examples: ball, boy, cat, person

- I have only five dollars.
- The Earth was formed 4.6 billion years ago.
- There are lots of people but we don't have a car.

When a countable noun is singular, we must use a word like a/the/my/this with it:

- I want an orange. (~~not I want orange.~~)
 - Where is my bottle? (~~not Where is bottle?~~)

When a countable noun is plural, we can use it alone:

- I like oranges.
- Bottles can break.

We can use some and any with countable nouns:

- I've got some dollars.
- Have you got any pens?

We can use a few and many with countable nouns:

- I've got a few dollars.
- I haven't got many pens.

Uncountable Nouns

(also called mass nouns)

You cannot count uncountable nouns. You need to use "measure words" to quantify them.

Rule: We never use uncountable nouns with the indefinite article (a/an). Uncountable nouns are always singular.

Examples: water, happiness, cheese

- Have you got some money?
- Air-conditioners use a lot of electricity.
- Do you have any work for me to do?
- Many Asians eat rice.

Collective Nouns

A collective noun denotes a group of individuals.

Examples: class (group of students), pride (group of lions), crew (group of sailors)

Rule: Collective nouns can be treated as singular or plural.

- His family live in different countries.
- An average family consists of four people.
- The new company is the result of a merger.
- The board of directors will meet tomorrow.

Compound Nouns

A compound noun is a noun that is made with two or more words.

Most compound nouns are [noun + noun] or [adjective + noun]. Each compound noun acts as a single unit and can be modified by adjectives and other nouns.

Compound nouns have three different forms:

- open or spaced - space between words (bus stop)
- hyphenated - hyphen between words (mother-in-law)
- closed or solid - no space or hyphen between words (football)

Compound Nouns

- Examples: cat food, blackboard, breakfast, full moon, washing machine
- Can we use the swimming pool?
- They stop work at sunset.
- Don't forget that check-out is at 12 noon.

Gerund

- A gerund is a noun formed from a verb. All gerunds end -ing.

For example: swimming, running, drinking

- Unlike a normal noun, a gerund maintains some verb-like properties. Like a verb, a gerund can take a direct object and be modified with an adverb.

Gerunds

Definition

Types of nouns

Quiz

There are many different types of nouns:
proper, common, concrete, abstract, countable, non-countable, collective,
verbal and compound.

See if you can identify the types of nouns shown in square brackets in the sentences below.

1. The [Rideau Canal] is a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

- a) common noun
- b) proper noun
- c) abstract noun

2. The Canal connects two [cities]:
Ottawa and Kingston.

- a) common noun
- b) non-countable noun
- c) compound noun

3. The Rideau Canal was built for military and commercial [purposes].

- a) concrete noun
- b) non-countable noun
- c) abstract noun

4. To commemorate the workers who died during the [building] of the Canal, the Rideau Canal Celtic Cross memorial was erected along the canal route in Ottawa.

- a) collective noun
- b) verbal noun
- c) compound noun

5. The monument is also dedicated to the [families] of the workers.

- a) collective noun
- b) non-countable noun
- c) abstract noun

6. During winter, approximately eight kilometres of the Canal becomes a [skateway].

9. The [locks] of the Rideau Canal are still operated the way they were in 1832, when the Canal was first built.

- a) concrete noun
- b) abstract noun
- c) collective noun

Possessive

When we want to show that something belongs to somebody or something, we usually add an apostrophe + s ('s) to a singular noun and an apostrophe (') to a plural noun.

Notice that the number of balls does not matter. The structure is influenced by the possessor and not the possessed.

	one ball	more than one ball
one boy	 the boy's ball	 the boy's balls
more than one boy	 the boys' ball	 the boys' balls

The structure can be used for a whole phrase:

- the man next door's mother (the mother of the man next door)
- the Queen of England's poodles (the poodles of the Queen of England)

Although we can use of to show possession, it is more usual to use possessive 's. The following phrases have the same meaning, but #2 is more usual and natural:

- the boyfriend of my sister
- my sister's boyfriend

We very often use possessive 's with names:

- This is Mary's car.
- Where is Ram's telephone?
- Who took Anthony's pen?
- I like Tara's hair.

When a name ends in s, we usually treat it like any other singular noun, and add 's:

- This is Charles's chair.

But it is possible (especially with older, classical names) to just add the apostrophe ':

- Who was Jesus' father?

Irregular Plurals

- Some nouns have irregular plural forms without s (man → men). To show possession, we usually add 's to the plural form of these nouns:

singular noun	plural noun
my child's dog	my children's dog
the man's work	the men's work
the mouse's cage	the mice's cage
a person's clothes	people's clothes

- c) students's

3. "My father's living in an _____ home."

- a) old peoples'
- b) old people's
- c) old peoples

4. "Whose cat is this? Is it your _____?"

- a) next door neighbours
- b) next door's neighbour
- c) next door neighbour's
