How do people greet each other for the first time in your country?

What about people who are friends?

Greeting the in UK

British people are quite reserved when greeting one another. A handshake is the most common form of greeting when you meet someone for the first time. It is only when you greet close friends or relatives that you would kiss them on the cheek or give them a hug. The British may also call you by many different 'affectionate' names, such as dear, chuck, mate, guv, son or madam. Do not be offended, this is quite normal.

UNDERSTANDING DIFFERENT CULTURES

I'M CHINESE

It is impolite to open gifts when received.

If you are invited to someone's home, you should always bring a gift to the hostess.

When receiving and offering business cards, always do it with both hands and never write on it!

I'M FRENCH

You should always dress well. It is better to be formal than too casual.

Do not give anything with the number 13. It is bad luck to French people!

3C Formal versus informal language

LEARN THIS! Use of formal language

Phrasal verbs tend to be used in more informal situations. We tend to avoid them in written English, though they are not incorrect:

go away → depart look at → review come up → arise

1 Match the phrasal verbs with their formal equivalents.

- | | | |
|--------------------|---|--------------|
| 1 let someone know | → | a represent |
| 2 look forward to | → | b submit |
| 3 put off | → | c inform |
| 4 hand in | → | d anticipate |
| 5 stand for | → | e omit |
| 6 leave out | → | f postpone |

2 Complete the sentences with the correct form of the words and phrases below. Say which sentence is formal or informal.

apologise inform let you know postpone put off sorry

- 1 Sorry about breaking your vase!
- 2 We are writing to apologise for the late delivery of your order.
- 3 We regret to inform you that the item you requested is no longer in stock.
- 4 Just thought I'd better let you know that we can't make your party.
- 5 We regret to announce that the meeting has been postponed.
- 6 We'll have to put off that dinner till next week.

- 4  1.21 Read the Listening Strategy. Then listen and match each dialogue (1–6) with a text type (a–f). Give reasons for your answers.

Listening Strategy

As you listen, focus on features that tell you what type of text you are hearing (e.g. news, interview, advertisement, notice, story, review, joke, etc.) and what the topic is. Such clues include register (formal or informal), subject vocabulary, or the speaker's tone of voice.

3 A Hey, Anna, how was your trip to Hong Kong?

B Great, thanks, Steve.

A What's Hong Kong like?

B Gosh, it's amazing. I had a wonderful time. It was so ultra-modern in so many ways, but so different, it's easy to make a mistake.

A Like what?

B Well, tell me what's wrong with my colleague and a group of people who were over to be introduced. So I put my back to her, turned round to speak to her, and then I turned round to speak to her again and turned round to speak to her again.

A What? You shouldn't turn round to speak to her. You mustn't show your back to anybody.

B No! You mustn't put your chopsticks in your pockets. You must leave them sticking straight up!

4 One of the many delights of the street markets here is the sheer abundance of the different herbs and spices on offer. Just look here at the piles of turmeric, cumin, paprika and garlic. Wonderful. Also wonderful are all the snacks that you can buy, freshly cooked right here on the spot. They say the best food you can eat here in Morocco is on the street in the markets, not in the hotels or cafés. I'm going to try some of this local crusty bread – called khobz – with a rich fava bean soup, flavoured with as much garlic as possible! You don't have to use cutlery – you can eat it with your fingers, dipping the bread into the soup. Oh my! It's delicious! You must come here and try it for yourself.
