METAPHOR

A metaphor is a figure of speech that describes an object or action in a way that isn't literally true, but helps explain an idea or make a comparison.

Writers use metaphor to add color and emphasis to what they are trying to express.

a sea of knowledge

“knowledge” and “the sea” are not literally related

they are figuratively related because they are both things that are difficult to measure.

By putting them together, you can accentuate how vast a person's knowledge is.

EXAMP LES

- a sunny smile*
- to purr with delight*
- iron nerves*

HOW DO METAPHOR

Every metaphorical word or phrase contains a 'key idea'. This is the connection or similarity between the literal meaning and the metaphorical meaning.

❖ She flew past me on her bicycle.

❖ Turing was the father of the modern computer.

❖ He gave me a cold look.

❖ He gave me a cold look.

Turing was the father of the modern computer.

HOW DO METAPHOR WORDS

The same key idea is expressed in several different words and phrases.

✓ A good diet will help your body fight disease.

✓ The virus attacks the Peter's immune system, that's why he takes pills.

✓ Jean has finally recovered after a long battle with cancer.

The key idea in this case is that trying to recover from an illness is like fighting a war, and many of the words and phrases that we use for talking about illness express this idea.

- “How sweet life was. She was swimming in warmth and in light, floating on cotton.” (Anais Nin “The Fear of Nice”) - a hero takes pleasure of life

- Metaphor denotes transference of meaning based on resemblance, in other words, on a covert comparison.
- It equates those two things not because they actually are the same, but for the comparison.
- Not only objects can be compared in a metaphor, but also phenomena, actions and qualities.
- Metaphors are used in poetry, literature, and anytime someone wants to add some color to their language.

METAPHOR ≠ SIMILE

Metaphors do not use words such as “like” or “as” to make comparisons. The writer or speaker relates the two unrelated things that are not actually the same, and the audience understands that it’s a comparison, not a literal equation.

EXAMPLE 1

Metaphor: All the world’s a stage.

Simile: All the world is like a stage.

EXAMPLE 2

Metaphor: That man is an animal.

Simile: He behaves like an animal.

Hope

*Hope is the thing with feathers
That perches in the soul,
And sings the tune—without the words,
And never stops at all,
And sweetest in the gale is heard;
And sore must be the storm
That could abash the little bird
That kept so many warm.
“I’ve heard it in the chillest land,
And on the strangest sea;
Yet, never, in extremity,
It asked a crumb of me.”*

—Emily Dickinson

Надежда – птах, ачала
В душе моей поёт
Без слов одну мелодию
Твердить не устаёт.

Сладчайшая мелодия
В свирепый, грозный шторм
Так щедро души многие
Окутала теплом.

Я песню эту слышала
В промозглой тусклой мгле
И в море, мне неведомом,
И на чужой земле.

Жесток, кто может напугать,
Встревожить, невзлюбя,
Ту, что не просит никогда
Ни крошки для себя.

Ed Sheeran Perfect

Baby, I'm dancing in the dark, with you between my arms
Barefoot on the grass, listening to our favorite song
When I saw you in that dress, looking so beautiful
I don't deserve this, darling, you look perfect tonight

Baby, I'm dancing in the dark, with you between my arms
Barefoot on the grass, listening to our favorite song
I have faith in what I see
Now I know I have met an angel in person
And she looks perfect, no I don't deserve this
You look perfect tonight
