Synonyms and antonyms are regarded as the treasure of the language's expressive resources. They are created by the vocabulary system with a particular purpose

Homonyms are of no interest in this respect. They are accidental creations, and therefore purposeless.

In the process of communication they lead sometimes to confusion and misunderstanding

Sources of Homonyms

- Phonetic changes
- Borrowing
- Shortening
- Split polysemy

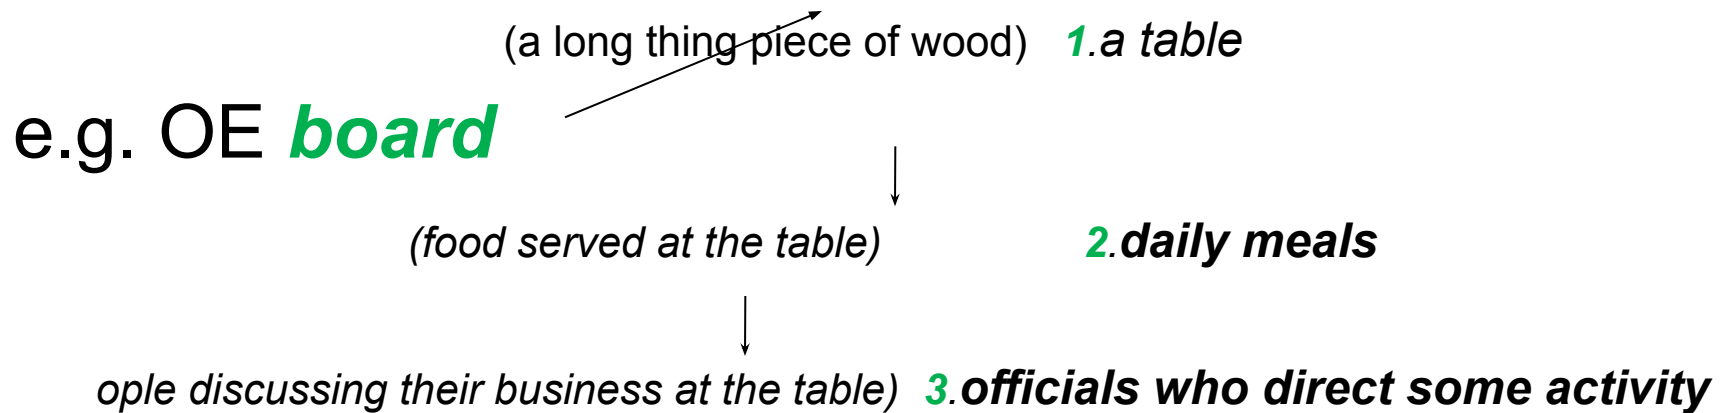

Convergent development of sound form (phonetic changes)

- two or more words which were pronounced differently at an earlier date may develop identical sound forms

Divergent semantic development (split polysemy)

- different meanings of the same word move so far away from each other that they come to be regarded as two separate units

Sources of Homonymy

■ shortening

Fan (Lat.)

“an implement for waving lightly to produce a cool current of air”

Fan “an enthusiastic admirer of sport or celebrity”

← shortening

Fanatic

Sources of Homonymy

■ borrowings

Bank

bank – “a shore”

a native word

bank – “a financial institution”

an Italian borrowing

Distribution Criterion

- homonyms differ in their syntactic function

e.g. I think that this “that” is a conjunction but that “that” that that man used was a pronoun.
