A wide-angle shot of a modern glass entrance door system. The system consists of three main glass panels with dark grey frames, set within a larger frame. Above the main panels are three smaller, horizontal glass panels. The interior of the building is visible through the glass, showing a bright, modern lobby with a tiled floor, a reception desk, and a large potted plant. To the right of the glass system, there is a grey service counter with a computer monitor and a sign that reads "Informationen Überweisungen".
