

Arizona, the USA

Arizona is the 48th state that became part of the United States. It is located in the south-west of the country. Along with Utah, Colorado and New Mexico are among the "four corners states". The capital and largest city of the state is Phoenix. In terms of population, Arizona ranks 20th in the United States. The climate of Arizona is characterized by mild winters and high temperatures in the summer.

Arizona is a very beautiful state, it has many attractions, such as:

Papago Park

Havasu Waterfall

lake Powell

The large pre-Columbian archaeological culture of Hohokam was located on the territory of the state from the 1st to the 15th centuries AD.

Arizona was granted state rights on February 14, 1912, the last of the 48 Contiguous states.

