

What are they? What were they for?

They are ... They were for... +ing.

They were for warming your legs.

It's the world's oldest pair of socks – 1,500 Years Old.

What is it? What was it for?

It's a ... It was for... +ing.

It was for brewing beer.

It's the world's oldest recipe
of beer – 5,000 years old.
The beer was very strong and had pieces of bread in it.

What is it? What was it for?

It's a ... It was for... +ing.

It was for protecting your eyes from the sun.

This mask protected the native Canadians from the sun's rays reflected in the snow.

What is it? What was it for?

It's a ... It was for... +ing.

It was for worshiping Gods.

It's the world's oldest human sculpture – 35,000-40,000 years old.

This wonderful ancient sculpture was discovered in Germany. It's made of a mammoth tusk.

What is it? What was it for?

It's a ... It was for... +ing.

It was for collecting and keeping money.

It's the world's oldest purse – 4,500 years old. It was discovered in Germany. The little white beads are dogs'
teeth!

What are they? What were they for?

They are ... They were for... +ing.

They were for keeping the place clean.

It was a public toilet with a system of water flow, similar to the modern toilet flush.
The flush carried the waste
to a nearby river.

What is it? What was it for?

It's a ... It was for... +ing.

It was for chewing.

It's the world's oldest chewing gum – 5,000 years old.

It was made from birch tree resin. People chewed it when they had mouth infections.

What is it? What was it for?

It's a ... It was for... +ing.

It was for playing music.

This flute is 40,000 years old.
It's made of ancient bird bones.

What is it? What was it for?

It's a ... It was for... +ing.

It was for wearing it on a foot.

It's the world's oldest shoe – 5,500 years old. It's made from ox skin. This right-footed shoe was found in an Armenian cave.

What are they? What were they for?

They are ... They were for... +ing.

They were for cutting your hair.

Ancient people (around 1,500 B.C.) thought that cutting hair was a regular medical procedure.