Создание
учебного пособия на основе
журналов, реально ли
это?

Что должно быть в учебном пособии?

What is needed to be in the educational book?

01.

Reading

(чтение)

Блоги, подкасты, интервью, обзоры интересных книг и фильмов

02.

Listening

(аудирование)

Взвешивать, читать одновременно для практики произношения

03.

Grammar

(грамматика)

Специальные упражнения, времена, Грамматика на каждый день

04.

Vocabulary

(словарный запас)

Использование языка в повседневном общении (словообразование, предлоги, словосочетания, идиомы)

05.

Writing

(письмо)

Писать друг другу, писать эссе на важные и актуальные темы (экология, окружающая среда, развитие, психология, отношения...)

06.

Speaking

(говорение)

Практика навыков говорения с помощью формата экзаменов (First Certificate in English) и ОГЭ/ЕГЭ + реальные жизненные ситуации (в магазине, в кафе, в отеле, в аэропорту, у доктора...)

EnglishMag WorkBook 1Q/2020

We are excited to present you special workbooks inside the magazine! Now, you can underline, highlight all the new words for you, do exercises, crosswords, and much more! If you want to practice English more, this part is made for you!

TED talks material shared with you by Creative Commons license solely for educational purposes.

01:12 – 01:09

Okay, now I don't want to alarm anybody in this room, but it's just come to my mind that the person to your right is a liar. Also, the person to your left is a liar. Also the person sitting in your very seats is a liar. We're all liars. What I'm going to do today is I'm going to show you what the research says about why we're all liars, how you can become a liaspotter and why you might want to go the extra mile and go from liaspotting to seeking, and ultimately to trust building. Now, speaking of _____, ever since I wrote this book, "Liaspotting," no one wants to meet me in person anymore, no, no, no, no. They say, "It's okay, we'll email you." (Laughter) I can't even get a coffee date at Starbucks. My husband's like, "Honey, deception? Maybe you could have _____ on cooking. How about French cooking?"

01:09 – 01:58

So before I get started, what I'm going to do is I'm going to _____ my goal for you, which is not to teach a game of Gotcha. Liaspotting isn't those _____ kids, those kids in the back of the room that are shouting, "Gotcha! Gotcha! Your eyebrow _____." You flared your nostril. I watch that TV show "Lie To Me." I know you're lying. No, liaspotting is armed with scientific knowledge of how to spot _____. They use it to get to the truth, and they do what mature leaders do everyday, they have difficult conversations with difficult people, sometimes during very difficult times. And they start up that path by accepting a core _____, and that proposition is the following: Lying is a _____ act. Think about it, a lie has no power whatsoever by its mere utterance. Its power emerges when someone else agrees to believe the lie.

1:58 – 3:08

So I know it may sound like tough love, but look, if at some

HOW TO SPOT A LIAR TED in English

LISTEN AND READ THE SCRIPT

englishmag.ru/how-to-spot-a-liar

VK@english_mag: Dear English readers, it was a while since TED video, but we didn't forget TED! Moreover, we will be making interesting and useful releases

Pamela Meyer thinks we're facing a pandemic* (an outbreak of a disease) of deception*, but she's arming* people with tools*, that can help take back* the truth. On any given day*, we're lied* to from 10 to 200 times, and the clues* to detect* those lies can be subtle* and counter-intuitive. Pamela Meyer, the author of Liaspotting, shows the manners and "hotspots" used* by those trained to recognize* deception* — and she argues honesty* is a value* worth preserving*.

Pamela Meyer, Lie detector

(the beginning on page A)

Deception is actually serious business. This con man, Henry Oberlander, he was such an effective con man, British authorities say he could have undermined the entire banking system of the Western world. And you can't find this guy on Google, you can't find him anywhere. He was interviewed once, and he said the following. He said, "Look, I've got one rule." And this was Henry's rule, he said, "Look, everyone

04:20

(Laughter)

04:22

Now when we first hear this data, we recoil. We can't believe it. We're essentially against lying. We're essentially against lying. You look more closely, the plot actually thickens. I know, you can't find him anywhere. He was interviewed once, and he said the following. He said, "Look, I've got one rule." And this was Henry's rule, he said, "Look, everyone

-- the list goes on. Lying is an attempt to bridge that gap, to connect our wishes and our fantasies about who we wish we were, how we wish we could be, with what we're really like. And boy are we willing to fill in those gaps in our lives with lies.

We parse it out on an as-needed basis, sometimes good reasons, other times just because we don't use the gaps in our lives. That's truth number two about lying. We're against lying, but we're covetous for it in us our society has sanctioned for centuries and centuries. It's as old as breathing. It's part of our part of our history. Think Dante, Shakespeare, the 1 of the World.

05:33

(Laughter)

05:35

Studies show that people who are overdetermined in their denial will resort to formal rather than informal language. We also heard distancing language: "that woman." We know that liars will unconsciously distance themselves from their subject, using language as their tool. Now if Bill Clinton had said, "Well, to tell you the truth..." or Richard Nixon's favorite, "In all candor..." he would have been a dead giveaway for any liaspotter that knows that qualifying language.

When you combine the science of recognizing deception with the art of looking, listening, you exempt yourself from collaborating in a lie. You start up that path of being just a little bit more explicit, because you signal to everyone around you, you say, "Hey, my world, our world, it's going to be an honest one. My world is going to be one where truth is strengthened and falsehood is recognized and marginalized. And when you do that, the ground around you starts to shift just a little bit. And that's the truth. Thank you.

Tasks: Write out all the new words in your workbook and try to guess the meaning from the English-English dictionary you can check free Macmillan online dictionary: macmillandictionary.com
