Cognition + creativity

Do you know?

In the process of MODELING, children develop an eye, motor-tactile sensations, fine motor skills of the fingers of the hands, creative imagination. In the process of APPLICATION, the shape, color and size of the depicted object, as well as the composition of several elements, are vividly presented. Therefore, the application process especially contributes to the development of a sense of rhythm, color and shape. DRAWING introduces children to a relation with paints, shades of different colors. By drawing or modeling, children learn to think independently and actively. They develop a fantasy, imaginative perception of the world, creative representation of what is seen in drawings, modeling, applications, aesthetic experiences, inevitably arising at the same time.

Therefore, THE INTEGRATION of artistic and creative activity children in English classes not only contributes to the development of creative abilities, but also consolidation in a relaxed manner the lexical and grammatical material studied during the lesson.
