The Metropolitan Opera is a vibrant home for the most creative and talented singers, conductors, composers, musicians, stage directors, designers, visual artists, choreographers, and dancers from around the world

HISTORY

The Metropolitan Opera was founded in 1883, as an alternative to the previously established Academy of Music opera house

In the company's early years, the management changed course several times, first performing everything in Italian, then everything in German, before finally settling into a policy of performing most works in their original language, with some notable exceptions

It was built on Broadway by a group of wealthy businessmen who wanted their own theater

THE FIRST PERFORMANCE: 1883

The first Metropolitan Opera House opened on October 22, 1883, with a performance of Faust

THE INTERIOR

Damaged by fire on in 1892, the theater was immediately rebuilt, reopening in 1893. Another major renovation was completed in 1903

The theater's interior was extensively redesigned. The familiar red and gold interior associated with the house dates from this time. The old Met had a seating capacity of 3,625 with an additional 224 standing room places.

THE REPERTOIRE

The operas in the Met's repertoire consist of a wide range of works, from 18th-century Baroque and 19th-century Bel canto to the Minimalism of the late 20th and 21st century

These operas are presented in staged productions that range in style from those with elaborate traditional decors to others that feature modern conceptual designs

THE REPERTOIRE

The Met's performing company consists of a large symphony-sized orchestra, a chorus, children's choir, and many supporting and leading solo singers.

The company also employs numerous free-lance dancers, actors, musicians and other performers throughout the season.

The Met's roster of singers includes both international and American artists, some of whose careers have been developed through the Met's young artists programs.

While many singers appear periodically as guests with the company, others maintain a close long-standing association with the Met, appearing many times each season until they retire.

WITH THE HELP OF TECHNOLOGY

*In 1977, the Met began a regular series of televised productions with a performance of La Bohème, viewed by more than four million people on public television.*

Over the following decades, more than 70 complete Met performances have been made available to a huge audience around the world. Many of these performances have been issued on video, laserdisc, and DVD.

WITH THE HELP OF TECHNOLOGY

In December 2006, the company launched The Met: Live in HD, a series of performance transmissions shown live in high definition in movie theaters around the world

In partnership with the New York City Department of Education and the Metropolitan Opera Guild, the Met has developed a nationwide program for students to attend Live in HD transmissions for free in their schools
