Derived verbs

- Derived verbs are formed through affixes.

An affix is a meaningful element added to another meaningful from resulting in a free form or a word.

Derivation is the process whereby the addition of affixes, chiefly prefixes and suffixes in English, to base forms results in the creation of new words.

- 1) Suffixes: -en, -ate, -ize, -ify
- 2) Prefixes: be-, en-

For example: material-ize=materialize deep+en=deepen

pure+ify=purify

active+ate=activate

Compound Verbs

- If a subject of a sentence has a verb that is made up of more than one word, that verb is called a compound verb.

Phrasal verbs

- When a verb combines with another type of word, such as an adverb, the result is a phrasal verb.

Examples:

-tear up
-take away
-take down
-work on

Prepositional Verb

- When a preposition combines with a verb to form a new verb, the result is called a prepositional verb.

Examples:

-believe in
-ask for
-rely upon

Verb with Auxiliaries

- In this form, a verb combines with another verb called a helping verb.

Examples:

-was walking

-will meet

Compound single-word verb

- Sometimes a single verb is a combination of multiple words.

Examples:

-babysit

-water-proof

-stirfry
