Getting a higher education in the field of medicine is a decisive step in the life of every applicant, because training in medical fields is one of the most difficult and responsible. Every year it becomes popular to receive medical education abroad, for reasons such as the quality of education, the latest technologies, practice and prospects for better employment. I want to tell you more about getting a medical education in Poland.

Medical universities in Poland are high-quality European education. Great emphasis is placed on practical skills, medical universities are equipped with the latest laboratories and devices, qualified teaching staff. A graduate of medicine has broad prospects for getting a job, both in Poland and abroad.

For admission to the State Medical University of Poland, it is necessary to pass entrance exams in chemistry, biology, physics, mathematics – each medical university independently makes a list. For applicants on a paid basis, it is enough to submit a package of documents to the university and pass an interview.

The training is conducted in Polish and/or English, so you will need language certificates of level B1-B2.

Foreign applicants have three ways of entering Polish universities: According to the Pole's Card - having proved Polish origin and received a Pole's Card, a foreigner enters a medical university on an equal basis with Polish citizens, that is, passes exams in chemistry, physics, biology in Polish and is trained for free; According to the scholarship program - entrance exams are taken at the consulate or Embassy of Poland, those who have passed the tests are given a referral to the first or zero course of a medical university for free training; For paid tuition - applicants provide a school certificate and pass a simple interview.
