THE PERFUME CHANEL N° 5

- In 1921, the perfume Chanel N° 5 appeared. Their authorship belongs to perfumer Ernest Bo, who worked at the Chanel perfume hotel. Bo suggested Chanel choose a fragrance from two series of numbered samples (from 1 to 5 and from 20 to 24); She liked the composition in the bottle number 5 - under such a laconic name he was launched into the market. Now these perfumes are on the list of the most expensive in the world.

A STRICT BLACK DRESS

- Chanel made popular a strict black dress that could be worn during the day and evening, depending on how it was complemented with accessories - while the secular rules of the time required changing clothes for lunch and dinner. In 1926, the American Vogue magazine equated the “little black dress” with the versatility and popularity of the Ford T.

A SMALL HANDBAG

- In February 1955, she introduced a small handbag in the shape of a rectangle on a long chain. Women were able to carry the bag conveniently: just hang it on their shoulder and forget about it.
