

Reading
eggs
Junior

Sandcastles

Amy Russo

Illustrated by Marta Tesoro

Let's build a castle,
With a fortress and tower.

A place for the Kings
And Queens who have power.

We'll start with the walls,
Big, strong and wide.

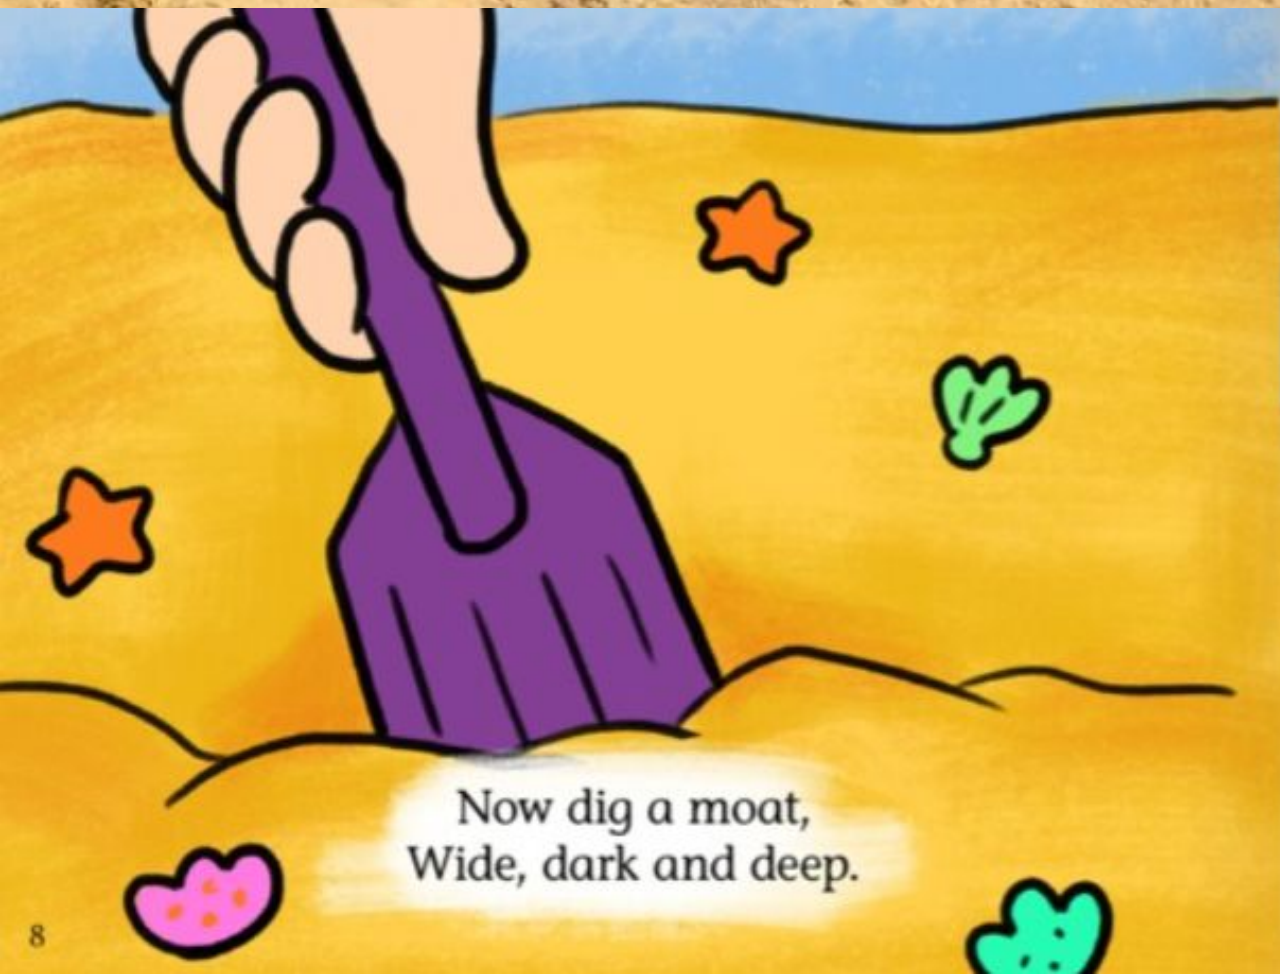

With plenty of sand
To build up each side.

Put up a tower,
With shells on the top.

Make it the tallest,
Oh no, it went flop!

Now dig a moat,
Wide, dark and deep.

Fill it with water,
So the dragons can't leap.

We're still busy playing,
At the end of the day.

But here comes a wave,
To wash it away.