

My favourite Russian film

"Hardcore" is a Russian-American fantasy action film shot in 2015. Directed by Ilya Naishuller, and starring actors such as Sharlto Copley, Danila Kozlovsky, Hayley Bennett. This is the first ever film shot from the face of the hero himself, from his eyes. In the film, as it should be an action movie, there are enough scenes with fights and shooting...

The main character of "Hardcore" Henry—a cyborg, which somewhere in the laboratory over Moscow collects parts of his beloved wife Estelle. Robotic happiness does not last long: "we" do not even have time to get a voice, as an armed group led by the white-haired Akan (Danila Kozlovsky) breaks into the laboratory and takes our wife. Throughout the film, Henry searches for his wife through the crowds of mercenaries, but at the end of the film it turns out that Estelle is not his wife, but Akan's accomplice. Their plan was to create an army of cyborgs like Henry himself, but Henry kills both Akan and Estelle...
