Blaster

- ▶ Blaster is a very necessary profession, without which it would be impossible to carry out construction in various regions, carry out various works, demolition of old structures, etc. Specialists of this category are taught explosives for the purpose of conducting underground and open works in production. Explosives work with considerable risk for their own health and life, but for the good of people.

- The blaster must be able to calculate the charge distribution, design the trajectories of the rock's spread in such a way that people, nearby buildings are not harmed.

What qualities should an exploster have?

- ▶ The blaster must have such personal qualities as utmost calmness, responsibility, the ability to make important decisions, not to succumb to feelings, to monitor the performance of work. A blaster must always monitor the safety of work, pay attention to every little thing, do not start work until he is sure that no one will suffer.

Thank you for attention!
