

SIW project

Subject: Business English

The background of the slide features a series of vertical lines in various shades of teal and grey, creating a textured, rain-like effect. A solid teal horizontal band spans the width of the slide, serving as a background for the title and author information.

Celebrity Endorsements in Advertising

Done by the student of the faculty of international relations group 305 Nurgisaeva Aizhan

Aims of the project

- To give a definition
- To define profit

and disadvantages of celebrities endorsement

To give examples

To make a conclusion

Christian Stewart

Representative of products are usually famous persons

Definition

- Endorsements are a form of advertising that uses famous personalities or celebrities who command a high degree of recognition, trust, respect or awareness amongst the people.

Pros

- 1. Helps You Tap the New Markets
- When a well-known face endorses your brand, it automatically attracts new target audience – the diehard fans of the celebrity. People who would have not much cared about your brand will now get open to try it at least once because their favorite sportstar, actor, politician or model is endorsing it. The bigger the celebrity, the larger audience base you get to invite in.

- 2. Helps Personify Your Brand
- When you decide to work on celebrity marketing, the attributes of the celebrity automatically get transferred to the brand. For instance: if you'll hire an actor, your brand's image will automatically turn into something glamorous and exciting, if it was boring and dull before. A celebrity will make sure that the brand matches his/her personality and that is directly reflected to the audience.
- For example: Porsche has recently signed tennis player Maria Sharпова for her power and elegance that she brings into the game. This same power and elegance is what describes a Porsche as well. Thus, we can say that it was a perfect association.

- 3. Builds Trust and Credibility for your Brand
- People are emotionally and morally connected with their idols. Celebrities are no less than any idols for them. In this highly populated world, every celebrity that you'll come across will have over a million fans, and thus getting the thumbs up from them should bring a lot of success for your business. Now when these millions of people will join your brand, your brand's market value and reputation will automatically improve in the shortest period of time.

Cons

- 1. Celebrities are Human Too
- One of the biggest cons of celebrity endorsement is that as and when the stardom flashed off, the number of fans will also start to decline and the company may have to suffer the consequences as well. This is the reason most organizations work on contract basis and decide to sign up different personalities at the end of the term. For example: the Lux brand had over 50 different models and actors endorsing its products since the launch. The marketing head of Lux makes sure that only the top woman in the industry endorses the products to keep the market growing.

Cons

- 2. Celebrities May Eclipse Your Brand
- Some celebrities are really huge and their popularity can instantly overshadow the brand. If this happens, spending millions of dollars on such endorsements starts to make no sense at all. Some advertisements even focus on celebrities too much, that there's absolutely no brand recall. Also, if the media is focusing more on the next movie of the celebrity on your brand's press meet, then this is a sign that you've made a wrong choice.

Cons

- 3. Celebrity Endorsements are Expensive
- Now this is a very obvious point. So unless you are ready to shed millions and billions of dollars from your company's revenue, don't think about going down this road. Celebrity marketing is a huge investment and then there'll be no turning back.

45089-525P

nutella

FERRERO

Hazelnut Spread with Skim Milk & Cocoa
NET WT 26.5 OZ (750g)

Conclusion

- Such advertising connects with a lot more people than ordinary advertising can, because people will notice celebrities, famous personalities and role models even from a vast clutter of noise, people or products. Such ads work well for aspiration products or lifestyles.

Endorsements can confer on a brand a larger-than-life image, and if the advertising follows the current celebrities and personalities, the endorsement can last quite long. Lux is an example, which is endorsed by all the leading actresses of the generation, helping greatly to keep Lux a relevant and attractive brand even as consumers change.