GREENPEACE

In 1971, motivated by their vision of a green and peaceful world, a small team of activists set sail from Vancouver, Canada, in an old fishing boat. These activists, the founders of Greenpeace, believed a few individuals could make a difference.

Their mission was to «bear witness» to US underground nuclear testing at Amchitka, a tiny island off the West Coast of Alaska, which is one of the world's most earthquake-prone regions. Amchitka was the last refuge for 3000 endangered sea otters, and home to bald eagles, peregrine falcons and other wildlife.

Even though their old boat, was intercepted before it got to Amchitka, the journey sparked a flurry of public interest. The US still detonated the bomb, but the voice of reason had been heard. Nuclear testing on Amchitka ended that same year, and the island was later declared a bird sanctuary.

A dramatic landscape photograph featuring a sunburst effect where bright light rays pierce through dark, heavy clouds. Below the sky, a dense green forest covers a hillside, and in the foreground, a field of tall, yellow-green grass is visible. A winding road and a few small structures are nestled at the base of the forest.

Today, Greenpeace is an international ecological organization that has 2.8 million supporters worldwide, and national as well as regional offices in 41 countries. Its headquarters are based in Amsterdam, the Netherlands.

In the distance, a small wooden cabin is visible on a grassy slope. The sky is filled with dramatic, dark clouds, suggesting an approaching storm or late afternoon light. The overall atmosphere is peaceful and natural.

Greenpeace is a non-profit organization and nongovernmental. It unites people of different colours living in different continents and speaking different languages. The common mission of this organization is preserving life on the earth in its full variety.

The background is filled with dense trees and bushes, creating a sense of a deep, untouched wilderness.

Greenpeace does not accept donations from governments, corporations or political parties but relies on contributions from individual supporters and foundation grants. Greenpeace does not support any political party. Nevertheless, its members carry on a dialogue with all political forces and struggle for approving and passing laws for the welfare of our environment.

As a global organization, Greenpeace focuses on the most crucial worldwide threats to our planet's biodiversity and environment. It campaigns to stop climate change, save the oceans, stop whaling, say no to genetic engineering, stop the nuclear threat, eliminate toxic chemicals.

A scenic landscape featuring a calm lake in the foreground that perfectly reflects the surrounding environment. The lake is flanked by steep, rugged mountains. The left mountain is dark and rocky, while the right mountain is covered in lush green vegetation and dense evergreen forests. In the distance, a snow-capped mountain peak rises above the clouds. A small, colorful hot air balloon is visible in the upper right corner of the sky. The sky is a vibrant blue with scattered white clouds. The overall scene is peaceful and majestic, showcasing the beauty of a mountain wilderness.

The goal of Greenpeace is to expose environmental criminals, and to challenge government and corporations when they fail to live up to their mandate to safeguard our environment and our future.
