Ulyanovsk was founded by Tsar Alexei Mikhailovich and Courtier Bogdan Matveevich Khitrovo in 1648. It was a fortress and protected the eastern borders of the Russian Kingdom from the raids of nomadic tribes.

SECONDARY SCHOOL # 63

The school was opened on August, 15th, 1984. It is located: Ulyanovsk, Zavolzhsky district, Novosondetsky boulevard, house number 13. The students study in the first shift, Monday-Friday.

Now 900 students study at the school. Language is Russian.

In 1780 Simbirsk became the capital of newly established governorship, which consisted of 13 counties. In 1796 Simbirsk turned into a provincial city with developed infrastructure (theaters, hospitals, high schools). The best and the richest part of it was located on the “Venets”, where were the councils, provincial administrative agencies, educational institutions, private residences, craft shops, public gardens and boulevards. The main occupation of the citizens was trade, agriculture and fisheries.

The origin of the name

An aerial photograph of a city, likely Nizhny Novgorod, Russia. In the foreground, a large, modern, multi-story building with a grid-like facade, possibly a university or government building, is surrounded by green lawns and trees. In the background, a dense urban area with various buildings and a river (Volga) is visible under a clear blue sky.

The original name of the city is Sinbirsk. Supposedly it was named after Prince Volga Bulgars Sinbira (Simbir). Since 1780, the city is known as Simbirsk. Archaeologist Michael Shorin thinks that the word "Sinbirsk" has Turkic origin, and explains it by the fact that the word "sin" means "grave" or "tombstone" and "bir" means "one". So "Sinbirsk", translated from Turkic language into Russian, means a single grave. The word has the same meaning and in the Uighur dialect (a special branch of the Turkic language). That's why the city should be called "Sinbirsk", but not "Simbirsk". Later the letter "N" was changed into "M" for the better pronunciation.

In 1924 Simbirsk was renamed into Ulyanovsk in memory of the famous Russian revolutionary Vladimir Ulyanov (Lenin). In 2008, Mayor Sergey Ermakov offered to return the historic name of the city, as the city was renamed into Ulyanovsk according the political reasons without consulting with the citizens. But this suggestion has been discussing till nowadays.

RUSSIAN SCHOOL MOVEMENT

At present, the issue of finding leaders and creating conditions for the development of leadership in children's organizations is of great social significance. The Russian movement of schoolchildren undertakes this task as the central one in its activity. In our work, we focus on the development of leadership qualities of rural schoolchildren, since this problem has not been the subject of systematic research. The aim of the work is to study the peculiarities of the development of leadership qualities of rural young people where movement of schoolchildren.

And this is a comment of the creation of the Russian Schoolchildren Movement from the Minister of Education and Science of the Russian Federation, Dmitry Livanov (quoted Interfax):

“ The Russian Schoolchildren Movement will have an obvious positive aspect, playing a crucial role in one of the main tasks of the education system - the education and socialization of students. This is a necessary initiative, and the ministry is ready to provide all the necessary preparatory and methodological assistance in organizing such a movement in all regions of Russia.

LEARNING CIRCLE PRIMARY SCHOOL MOLDOVA

In October –November we fourthgraders took part in a national project with a school from a town in the North of our country. Students made scrabbooks and talk about the sustainable goals. We exchange the scrabbook through postal office. At the beginning of December we send Christmas cards to friends from Europe.

We also care about the neighbourhood of our school. We clean each autumn. Sometimes we organize concerts. Here we are in the school canteen where we have breakfast and lunch

In October we made nice activities at the kindergarten which activate in our school. Small kids painted national Moldovan costumes called "IEIE" They enjoyed it a lot.

Our students with their English and art teachers collaborate in nice projects with European schools.
