There are thousands of dictionaries in the world, and each of them tells about words. Every English language learner has to use a dictionary almost daily.

From it, you can find out what meanings a particular word has and in which phrases it occurs, as well as study the examples of its use.

Monolingual (explanatory or English-English) dictionaries are presented at the exhibition.

They are necessary for every English language lover.

❖ Advantages:

- you are learning the meaning of words, not the translation;
- you are learning additional words;
- you get more complete information about the studied word;
- you are learning to think in English, not to translate;
- you are learning periphrasis;
- you develop the skill of language guessing.

Monolingual English dictionary conveys the meaning of words much more accurately, it is not the Russian equivalent of the word that is remembered, but whole English phrases with different applications of the desired word.
