A still life photograph of a traditional Georgian dining table. In the foreground, a large, dark, ornate metal pepper mill stands next to a small, dark bowl filled with meat and sliced onions. A glass of red wine sits next to a woven basket of bread. In the background, a large, round, flatbread is served on a wooden plate. The table is covered with a patterned cloth, and a small, dark, ornate metal pepper mill is visible in the foreground.

A close-up photograph of a traditional Georgian dish, Adzhapsandali, served in a wooden bowl. The dish consists of roasted eggplant, red and yellow bell peppers, and onions, all coated in a spicy tomato-based sauce and garnished with fresh herbs. The text "АДЖАПСАНД" and "АЛ" is overlaid on the image.
