

Lessons to be learnt from Singapore's experience

1. Political leaders have to be sincerely committed to elimination of corruption
2. Use of complex anticorruption measures since separate laws and regulations are not sufficient

Lessons to be learnt from Singapore's experience

3. The independent anticorruption agency must itself be incorruptible
4. Anticorruption agency should process independently from police

Lessons to be learnt from Singapore's experience

5. Periodical review of those departments which are most vulnerable to corrupt activities
6. The issue of low salary of civil servants must be addressed with increase in long-run