

My school

It was founded in 1861. First it was
school for girls.
After Great
October Revolution it became comprehensive co-education school specializing in English

We have old traditions, which were giving from generation to one, such as The day of Creation, golden autumn, Ural winter, Comunar training excises. Our motto is “Traditions, Creation, and Brotherhood”.

The graduate teachers are in our school. They try to give us all their knowledge and awake our interest to their subjects.

“They say, live and learn.”

The left page of the open book is blank and aged, with a decorative border in the top left corner. The border is a rectangular frame with a repeating geometric pattern in a dark blue or black ink. The rest of the page is plain, showing the texture of the old paper.

Thank you for your attention

The right page of the open book features the text "Thank you for your attention" in a dark brown, cursive script. The text is centered and slanted slightly to the right. The page is framed by a decorative border consisting of a repeating floral or scrollwork pattern in a light brown or tan color. The corners of the page are decorated with small, ornate flourishes.