Tim woke up later than usual. It was Sunday and he had lots of plans for the day.

HAVE

He was in the bathroom cleaning his teeth when he heard some unfamiliar voices from the veranda.

TOOTH

“Who could they be?” Tim thought

When he came into the room, his mum and two other women were chatting happily and didn't notice him.

Tim coughed to attract their attention.	THEY
“Oh, Tim, you’re up already!” his mother sounded excited. “Meet my school friends, Linda and Emma.” Linda shook his hand, Emma smiled and said: “We are happy to meet you, Tim.”	BE

The second fish was bigger than the first one and soon Dad caught a few more.

BIG

“If it goes on like this, mum will cook us a great dinner,” he said.

We kept fishing till noon but I didn’t catch anything myself and got really bored with it.

I

To me, it was a stupid waste of time but I certainly wasn’t going to tell Dad that. He wouldn’t have liked it.

Michael could not imagine his life without computers. His parents bought him his first computer at the age of seven.

BUY

It took her several days to learn how to use it.

HE

His mum said that younger people were much faster than adults at learning computer skills.

FAST

That was probably true – most children in Michael's class were very competent computer users.

CHILD

Michael was really surprised to find out that the first personal computer was invented in the 70s of the last century.

INVENT

“And how did you chat or send your e-mails without computers?” he asked his mother.

She smiled: “We didn’t each other e-mails. And there were no networks.”

NOT/SEND

She also said that it had been fun to communicate face-to-face, to play out-of-doors and to visit friends’ homes.

BE

“But if there were no computers, I wouldn’t be able to communicate with my friends who live far away from me,” Michael replied.

BE

“True. Technological progress is a great thing,” his mother said. “And I think people will create even more amazing communication devices in the near future.”

Kitty lived next door to me and we'd been friends since childhood. We studied at the same school and walked there together.

WALK

I was sixteen and she was four years younger than me.

YOUNG

But we had a lot in common and enjoyed chatting on our way to school.

WE

Every morning Kitty knocked on my door and I had to be ready by that time – she didn't like waiting for me.

NOT/LIKE

One day she didn't knock. When I caught up with her at the bus stop, she was reading a magazine and didn't even look at me.

I couldn't understand what was going on.

NOT/CAN

"Hey, Kitty, what's wrong? Why aren't you talking to me?"

I

"You yourself know why," Kitty said angrily.

"No, I don't. I wouldn't ask you if I knew."

"You went to the cinema with Lisa Parker yesterday," Kitty was almost crying.

KNOW

I felt puzzled and didn't know what to say. The two women at the bus stop looked amused at our conversation and didn't hide their smiles.

The voice on the other end of the line sounded familiar but Kim couldn't remember remember who it belonged to.

NOT/CAN

“Hello,” the lady said. “Can I speak to Mrs. Len?”

“I’m sorry but she’s not at home. She’s out. She is walking in the park.”

WALK

It was very cold out-of-doors and everything was covered in snow but Kim’s mother walked in all weathers.

COVER

She believed that it Would help her keep fit and gave her extra energy.

HELP

She actually looked younger than other women of her age and that was probably because of her walking.

WOMAN

“Can I take a message?” Kim asked politely.

“No. I will call her later. When is she going to be back?”

CALL

“She normally comes home at five.”

“Fine,” came the answer and the phone went dead.

COME

Kim felt a bit hurt. “It’s not polite to break off a conversation like that,” she thought to herself. If I were older, I would explain to that lady how to talk to people politely.”
